THE GLORY OF GREECE

An Athenian attorney has succeeded in his efforts to obtain a new trial for Socrates, who was condemned to death in 399 B. C. on a charge of impiety and of the corruption of the youth of Athens by his false teachings. It is claimed that the sentence was a gross miscarriage of justice, and that, for the honor of Greece, the decision must be legally reversed in the courts.

The law's delay is proverbial, but this is probably the tardiest attempt of justice that is on record.

Socrates, however, needs no such justification. He has taken his place among the small band of immortals who have pointed the way to intellectual freedom, and the emancipation of the human mind from the bondage of ignorant and superstitious beliefs.

It is true that Socrates did not worship the innumerable and ridiculous Greek gods of his time. He believed in one God, and for this he was accused of atheism. He dared, also, to question the justice of the social and political institutions, and asked fundamental questions about the sovereignty of man which threatened to disturb the established order of things.

The philosophy of Socrates began when he first learned to doubt the cherished beliefs and traditions current in his day, and his gifted mind, utterly fearless of the consequences, challenged all systems and institutions which sought to restrict freedom of thought and discussion, which he considered to be mankind's only bulwark against injustice and oppression.

Twenty-three centuries of experience has produced no improvement to the Socratic method of doubting, questioning and analyzing the logical basis of belief on which prevailing customs rest.

The glory of Greece will not be enhanced by the decision of a modern court. It is the glory of Greece that Socrates, the father of modern philosophy, was an Athenian.

PUNISHMENT PREVENTS CRIME

Six months ago State Senator Caleb H. Baumes of New York introduced laws into the New York Legislature which (1) increased penalties for practically all criminal offences, (2) provided life imprisonment for habitual offenders who had been convicted three times previously, (3) curtailed parole privileges.

This week New York jewelers, assembled in convention, declared that the Baumes laws had reduced their theft losses 50 per cent.

This seems to answer pretty definitely those jurists of the new school who would "cure" the criminal instead of punishing him.

American courts have been experimenting with new "humane" methods for years. And crime has increased.

Now, in six months, a set of severe penalties has definitely and conclusively reduced crime figures.

It is the unanswerable fact that punishment, and nothing but severe punishment, will prevent crime.

In Massachusetts, Utah, Connecticut, Kentucky, Louisiana and Minnesota similar laws are being prepared.

A wholesale cleanup of mawkish court procedure, purporting criminal laws and judicial red tape all over the country would give United States in five years crime statistics as favorable as those of England.

This is of vital interest to Canada because Canada and United States have already become and will become to an even greater degree a social and moral unit on the North American continent.

CONTROL OF THE MOSQUITO

Tourists in the Canadian Rockies will be interested in knowing that a vigorous fight is being maintained against the persistent mosquito. The Entomological Branch at Ottawa reports that since 1922 in addition to oiling the waters containing the wrigglers much control work of a permanent nature, such as ditching, dyking and trail cutting has been accomplished. Miles of narrow trails have been cut through dense willow growth to permit of the oiling of otherwise inaccessible places. Adverse criticism of the district around Banff, says the officer having the work in charge, has been silenced.

In addition to the foregoing mosquito investigation is being carried on in the eastern provinces.

CERTAIN TUBER BORNE DISEASES WHICH SHOULD BE ELIMINATED FROM SEED POTATOES INTENDED FOR APPROACHING SEASON'S PLANTING

Severe and careful grading of potatoes intended for seed and the discarding of all abnormal tubers during cutting operations is not only commendable, but absolutely essential, if the maximum return from the crop is to be expected.

It is extremely fortunate that the majority of diseases which attack the potato, decreasing if not entirely ruining the crop, manifest themselves in the tubers before planting time. Therefore, removal of this source of contamination, insures the crop to a remarkable degree.

Before cutting the seed run the stock over a hand rack and remove all tubers that are off-type or under three ounces in weight; all showing black scurf and anything showing brown necrotic lesions on the surface or rot of any kind no matter how slight. Even during careful grading certain diseased tubers will pass by unnoticed, therefore unless the greatest care is taken the object will be defeated.

Upon the completion of judicious grading there is still another step. There are many internal abnormalities such as black heart, stem end rot, brown rot and other diseases which can only be observed after the tuber is cut. Under no circumstances should sets exhibiting these conditions be planted.

How many farmers would raise progeny from animals known to be diseased and of inferior type or plant grain harvested from badly smutted fields and expect to be compensated for their efforts? Then why expect so much from a potato? Show a little foresight. You can't expect to sell all your marketable stock and keep the seconds for your own planting without paying the penalty. As long as a set, when planted, has an eye that is all some people think is necessary to secure satisfactory returns. The laws of nature cannot be disputed; a man can harvest only what he plants. If only carefully selected seed is used for planting the resulting crop will more than compensate for the labor expended.

THE PLOWMAN

The delicate green trees stand up
There by the fenced ways;
One or two are crimson-tipped
And soon will start to blaze.

The plowman follows, as of yore,
Along the furrows cod,
Homeric shape against the boughs;
Sharp is the air with mold.

Oh, new days, yet eons known and old!
Lo, as we look about,
This immemorial act of faith,
That takes the heart from doubt.

Kingdoms decay and creeds are not,
Yet still the plowman goes Down the spring fields, so he may make Ready for him that sows.

—Lizette Woodworth Reese, in "The Wayside Lute."

SLANG

Niagara Falls, N.Y.—A member of the Australian labor commission while on a recent visit to this city to study labor conditions, introduced Australian slang to the American public.

To another member of the Commission, the introducer of slang as used in Australia, said in discussing a current press story.

"A bonzor sheila and a dinkum bloke got stounded by the push before the Johns moomed along. It was a fair cove."

Translated in slang as used in the United States the statement is:

"A knockout sketch of a hot baby and an are high sport got beat up by some tough eggs before the cops woke up. It was a dirty deal."

The literal translation is:
"A fine girl and a nice boy were attacked by ruffians and severely beaten before the policemen arrived on the scene. The assault was an outrage."

THE LAND OF BEYOND

Have you ever heard of the Land of Beyond?

That dreams at the gates of the day?

Alluring it lies at the skirts of the skies,
And ever so far away;

Alluring it calls: O ye the yoke galls,
And ye of the trail overfond,

With saddle and pack, by paddle and track,
Let's go to the Land of Beyond!

Have you ever stood where the silences brood,
And vast the horizons begin,

At the dawn of the day to behold far away
The goal you would strive for and win?

Yet, ah! in the night when you gain to the height,
With the vast pool of heaven star-spread,

Afar and a clean, like a valley of dream,
Still mocks you a Land of Beyond.

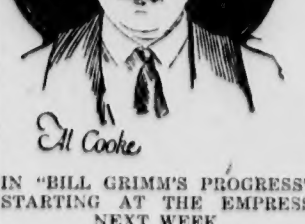

Thank God! there is always a Land of Beyond
For us who are true to the trail;

A vision to seek a beckoning peak,
A farness that never will fail;

A pride in our soul that mocks at a goal,
A manhood that irks at a bond,

And try how we will, unattainable still,
Behold it, our Land of Beyond!

Ford One Ton Truck

Does Six Weeks' Work In One

Joseph Girodat hauls his grain seventeen miles north into Gull Lake, Sask. He used to make three trips a week with his horses as that was all they could stand.

Now with his Ford Truck he easily makes four trips a day and can haul all the grain in one week that used to require six.

"When I think of the many times, returning home, I had to walk seventeen miles beside my grain wagon to keep from freezing, and compare it with my trips now in a comfortable closed in cab, I would hate very much to ever resort to teams and wagons for hauling grain," says Mr. Girodat.

"I now eat all my meals at home, travel in comfort, and do my hauling for less money than previously. I get about seventeen miles to the gallon."

Ford trucks can be depended upon regardless of cold weather or icy roads. Many farmers have found with Mr. Girodat that "the whole thing sized up is comfort versus misery" in addition to more grain profit.

We will gladly prove to your satisfaction that the use of Ford equipment will save you time and money.

WE MUST SAVE OUR FORESTS

It is significant that many Canadian bank presidents and financial leaders in their annual reports on the business of the year 1926 laid stress on two things: (1) the importance of our forest industries to our domestic and export trade and,
(2) the need for prompt and vigorous action to ensure that this great resource be not destroyed by forest fires. Time was, in the memory of those still living, when the inhabitants of some Canadian cities were delighted when a pall of wood smoke swept over the district in early spring, for they said "That smoke is from 'lash' fires; there must have been much logging last winter; our river and harbour will soon be full of logs and business will be brisk." If they thought about other consequences at all they considered that the 'lash' fires would clear the land for farmers, and that if logs ever did fall there would be bargeloads and wagon-loads of wheat to take their place.

But the succeeding generation has learned that much of this land, though capable of producing trees was not fitted to grow wheat and other farm crops, and that these repeated fires destroyed not only the young growth, the hope of the forest but, in some cases, even the very soil itself. And people are getting over the idea that it is a slur upon Canada to say that much of our land will not grow anything but trees, when these trees can be the lumberman be turned into the finest structural timbers in the world, and by the pulp and paper industry transformed into the multifarious valuable commodities for which the nations are competing with ever increasing eagerness. The satisfactory thing about Canada's timber situation is that, if Canadians will cultivate their forests instead of mining them, they will not only keep up in perpetuity the production of timber at the present rate but they will even be able to increase the annual cut without encroaching on the forest capital.

Our financial leaders stress the point that the forest is our scoptural natural resource in point of national income. And, on the administrative side, it has been shown that Canada has so handled her forest lands under a system of leases that over 90 per cent are still owned by the Crown, that is by the people, and that from these forests the Dominion and provincial governments draw revenues. The totaling over $14,000,000 per year. That, in many respects, is a happy nation and many states and nations east envious eyes upon Canada's good fortune and good administration. The point made by our financial leaders is not that Canadians are sinners exceedingly above all other people in wasting their forest heritage but that with the experience of older nations to draw from and with the great opportunities of the twentieth century before them they are apparently in danger of allowing their forests to be reduced to the minimum by fire and wasteful cutting before they start to grow them up again. Planting forests is good but a system of so cutting and protecting existing forests that they will bring forth increasing crops, is better.

The forefathers of the present generation of Canadians, legislators, administrators, lumbermen—did well, very well considering that they worked without maps, surveys, or timber estimates, and could not possibly foresee the tremendous demand for forest products that new needs and new inventions would bring, but if the present generation is not to be recant to its great trust it must build on the foundation they laid. They in a large measure saved the forests for us—remember the people of Canada still own 90 per cent of the forest land—and we must save them for our successors, and for ourselves. The great engine for achieving this is at hand in an informed and alert public opinion and with the average citizen taking an interest in forest conservation and doing what his intelligence suggests, this vital question can be settled for all time.

Hugh Mackintosh, well known farmer left last Saturday for Moose Jaw, to take over and superintend the forestry car and tree planting car of the Canadian Forestry Association of Canada, during its itinerary in Alberta.

It will be remembered that this car for many years was in charge of the late Archie Mitchell, who was known all over western Canada as "the tree man." It seems fitting that Mr. Mackintosh, who was a very old friend of Mr. Mitchell's, should take his place, even for a short time, and take the car into Alberta for the first time after the lamented death of Mr. Mitchell, for no one knows the methods and principals of Mr.
Mitchell better than Mr. Mackintosh.

OPERATIONS OF THE ALBERTA WHEAT POOL'S PRINCE RUPERT TERMINAL

The Alberta Wheat Pool has loaded twenty-two ships with wheat from the 1926 crop at Prince Rupert and expects to bring the total up to twenty-four before the crop movement is ended this spring.

The Alberta Pool terminal at Rupert has already handled 5,188,000 bushels and the total will reach 5,788,000 bushels within a few weeks. This is a larger total than was anticipated last fall.

The Prince Rupert house was built and is owned by the Canadian Government, has a capacity of 1,250,000 bushels and is probably the fastest handling terminal on the coast. It is under lease to the Alberta Pool for a term of two years. Joseph Bennett is superintendent of this elevator.

Through the Pool's extensive operation, the ocean freight differential has disappeared and grain is shipped to Europe from Prince Rupert at the same rate as from Vancouver.

Of the twenty-four ships already loaded or committed, six carried grain to the Orient and eighteen to Europe.

Previous to the Pool leasing the Rupert terminal, no wheat had been shipped from that port.

RELIABLE SEEDS

If there is anything in the idea that a late spring means a good crop we ought to be well away. Therefore, it is all the more important that you plant only reliable seed. We have on hand a stock of government certified seed in the following: Registered marquis wheat, sweet clover, Grimm alfalfa, bromo, winter rye, millet, field peas, corn, netted gem potatoes, together with a full line of packet seeds from Summers, Steele Briggs, McKenzie and Ferry.

We solicit your orders for these or any other seeds, which we can procure in two day's time and save you freight or express charges.

Fresh culture for clover and alfalfa always on hand.

S. Dillingham received by wire on Thursday morning of last week the sad message of the death of his brother, H. C. Dillingham, who succumbed to hemorrhage of the brain, dying Wednesday evening at his family residence in Oakland, California. The deceased had formerly been a resident of Alberta for several years, carrying on farming operations at Champion and Three Hills, and later reverting to his profession of journalism, purchasing the Innisfail Province and publishing that newspaper for a period of five years, when about a year since he sold his interest in Innisfail and moved to Oakland, California. The deceased is mourned by his wife Laura, and three children, two daughters, Irene and Norma and a son Rex; his brother S. Dillingham, at Macleod, and his sister Etta (Mrs. E. Reeves), of Winnipeg. Interment took place at Oakland on Saturday, April 16th.

Correct in Principle Correct in Design

THE MILLS WIRE WEEDER

Is built in two sizes, 14 feet and 9 feet.

Is the only weeder which operates on the correct principle to remove weeds, the revolving cables traveling underground bend the roots over and pull them to the surface.

It leaves the weeds on top of the ground with their roots up so they die. Other weeders fail to do this, leaving the roots standing up in the soil so that they grow again.

Is the only weeder which can be adjusted for various weed conditions.

It is shipped out with eight cables per section which are used when weeds are small, or the growth is light. If the growth is thick or heavy, the number of cables is reduced to six or five.

It is flexible and works well in uneven ground.

It does not pulverize the soil.

It will pull any kind of weed.

It will work in any soil which has been cultivated.

It leaves the surface smooth where other weeders leave ridges and hollows.

It requires less power than any other weeder of the same dimensions—6 horses for the 14-ft. weeder, 4 horses for the 9-ft. weeder.

It is strongly built for hard service.

It is worth its weight in gold to the farmer who has weed trouble.

It is the only sure weed remover on the market to-day.

A machine will be on display in a short time.
